

Curriculum Vitae

(Sabine Jülicher)

Main expertise in summary

Ms Sabine Jülicher is Director for food and feed safety, innovation in the Directorate General for Health and Food Safety of the European Commission. She is responsible for policies relating to a range of sectors such as food information & composition, food waste, food processing technologies, novel foods, biotechnology, pesticides as well as veterinary medicines & animal nutrition. The unit in charge of biocides is part of the food and feed safety, innovation Directorate and in this respect Ms Jülicher is one of the representatives appointed by the Commission to the Management Board.

Professional experience

Director for food and feed safety, innovation in the Directorate General for Health and Food Safety of the European Commission (since 2016)

Head of Unit responsible for policy matters related to authorisation and monitoring of medicines and relations with the European Medicine's Agency in the Directorate General for Health and Food Safety of the European Commission (2013 to 2015)

Head of Unit in the Food and Veterinary Office of the Directorate General for Health and Food Safety of the European Commission responsible for audits and inspections in the area of food of animal origin in EU Member States, accession countries and non-EU countries trading with the EU (2008-2012)

Veterinary inspector at the Food and Veterinary Office of the Directorate General for Health and Food Safety of the European Commission (2009-2008)

Head of Unit microbiology; Medical, Food and Veterinary Laboratory of Northern Hesse, Kassel, Germany (1991-1999)

Research Assistant, Federal Health Office, Berlin, Germany (1990-1991)

Education

Dr. Jülicher holds a veterinary degree from the Free University Berlin and completed her thesis on microbiology and food safety. Moreover she holds a postgraduate qualification in food hygiene.

Other relevant information

Date 9/3/2016